
Tips for Selling a TelKee Cabinet

Are the keys you are storing oversized or in bunches?

- The cabinet's capacity is designed based on 1-2 regular house sized keys per hook.
- Oversized (e.g. new car keys) and bunches of keys are fine; they just take up more room, thus reducing the overall capacity.
- Many customers use every other row or every other hook.
- Customers often leave an empty slot (the space for a panel) to ensure the door will shut. For example, the 686 cabinet (up to 4 panels – maximum 450 hooks) maximum for bunches may be 350 (3 panels) or even 250 (2 panels)

How many hooks do you need? Do you need room for expansion?

- Taking into consideration the type of keys to be stored, the customer should balance the initial cost with their desire to have room to expand. We sell 4 sizes of cabinets,
 - T347 – up to 1 panel, 60 hooks max
 - T530 – up to 3 panels, 245 hooks max
 - T686 – up to 4 panels, 450 hooks max
 - T686L – up to 5 panels, 550 hooks max

Do you have special locking requirements?

- Standard cabinets come with a cam lock and two keys
- There are two common upgrades; First keyless entry via a Mechanical Key Pad or 3-digit Combo Lock, and Second higher security via a Manager Override or 3-point locking system
- See a complete list of locking options (attached)

Do you have any special key tag requirements?

- Cabinets come standard with one plastic key tag numbered sequentially from "one to the number of hooks in the cabinet" in red or blue. For example a T530/175 includes tags #1-175.
- We also sell Yellow and Green tags and custom numbering (we have the ability to stamp from 0001-9999). Any special tag request is OK, but we charge to hand stamp the tags and therefore they costs $0.10 extra per tag. For example, T686L/450 with Green tags #1151-1600 would cost $45.00 extra.

What colour do you want?

- Cabinets come in two colours, beige (best for the office) and hammertone grey (hides scratches better). All of the cabinets are painted with a baked enamel scratch resistant finish.
- NOTE: The 347/35 is only available in grey.
